RB&P, Ringing In The New Year, and Little Men

A Couple of Notes. There will be a new RB&P soon. It will be a bit of a recap, why BYU's schedule really did suck, a Bowl Preview, and a bit of a season recap. However due to the purchase of a new home, I haven't been able to do it the last couple weeks.

Speaking of the new house, Sabrina and I were wondering what the general feeling was about a party to ring in the New Year on December 31st at the new place? What say ye?

Also I'm relatively sure that everyone has seen it by now, but just in case, the countdown to the return to the Shire has begun with an official trailer.

Rocking out

Thank you Aerosmith for providing me a best hits album (Oh Yeah). It combines all of the really awesome stuff of Aerosmith in to 2 very portable CD's. I have listened to mine many many times and thoroughly enjoyed it. You have saved me from not having to listen to some of your less popular songs. And I appreciate that, because it means I can just focus on the great stuff.

On a secondary note...

Thank you Metallica for NOT providing me with a best hits album. Your tireless efforts to constantly rock out have not gone unnoticed on me. Thank you for not simply repackaging all of your awesome songs in an effort to just make a bit more money. Your last album (Death Magnetic) was spectacular. Thank you for always rocking!

I am clearly a very conflicted soul.

Fiber.net outage

On Wednesday, December 14, 2011 @ 12:00 am, Fibernet will be performing vital maintenance and an upgrade on a router that has an ongoing hardware problem.

We will take this opportunity to upgrade the router with substantially more powerful processors, power and cooling.

The affected system include DNS and the Fibernet website. Additionally, some colocation customers may experience downtime if their network connection is directly tied to this router.

We expect the maintenance to last less than 30 minutes.

Red, Blue And Pigskin

Due to a battle of The Sideshow Family vs. The Common Cold, in which the Sideshow Family is currently performing about as well as the Utes last Saturday, this week's RB&P will be cliff notes version:

Rumble in the Rockies more like Bumblin in the Rockies. Utes undisciplined, and played tight. Testament to how terrible Colorado is, Utes only lost by 3. Started with Mo Lee's stupid penalty on first drive. Utes just in holiday spirit to give departing Colorado Freshmen an away victory.

7-5 only one game off of preseason prediction, but route taken very interesting. More on this next week as we revisit ThRhett's preseason question what would you rather watch question.

BYU heads to the islands with Riley Nelson cleared to play. Meaning he'll start. Can't be a good feeling for Jake Heaps. Hawaii still a terrible team but at least it's not as bad as November.

Congratulats to the Aggies, Bowl bound and have accepted the invite to the first ever Famous Potato bowl. Great job by Andersen and the Aggies to turn it around when they were sitting 2-5.

Next week, Season Review, Revisiting a season long argument, and Bowl destinations announced.
